Variations on a Cheeseburger

With outdoor cooking time here, the cheeseburger again reigns supreme. Perhaps this is because it is so easy to make that even an amateur can't fail.

Actually, its popularity is due not so much to this ease of making, as to its universal appeal and the variety of ways in which it can be served.

The cheeseburger artist knows how to vary his offering, using different types of cheese to enhance the flavor of the ordinary hamburger. Among the ready-sliced varieties which he favors are American, Swiss, Gruyere and Cora-Sharp.

That's about all it takes to win fame as an expert cheeseburger maker—except that a slice of raw onion atop this creation turns the finished product into a real taste treat.

Incidentally, cheese slices are so adaptable that they serve many other outdoor-dining uses. Either the 6-oz. eight-slice package or the 12-oz. sixteen slice family size is convenient for making quick sandwiches. The slices are also an ideal topping for a macaroni casserole. Just place several slices atop the casserole before baking. And, of course, use these convenient slices in making hamburgers outdoors or indoors, for it's a favorite year-round favorite for all ages.

Hixburg

Hixburg, July 18.- Although the Rev. Donald Carson, of the First Presbyterian Church of Sanford, N. C., was suffering with sinus trouble he preached all five evenings last week at Walker's Presbyterian Church revival at Hixburg.

The attendance was almost like a home-coming, as people came from Farmville, Prospect, Appomattox, and Pamplin, it was a pleasure to have members of other churches join in the worship. The Rev. Charles T. Price, of Pamplin Methodist Church, was there with three singers, Mr. Thomas Ramson, Mr. Wilson Baldwin, and Mr. Clayton Beale, and rendered two vocal selections on Tuesday evening.
